Twenty-Fifth Anniversary of

The Savings Bank of Richmond

1117 E. MAIN ST.

Strong as the Strongest

A Quarter of a Century of Faithful Service

The Fourth Oldest Bank in the City

SOME THINGS WE HAVE DONE—

Paid Interest to Depositors, $596,876.75

Dividends Paid to Stockholders, $240,590.57

Amount of Business Done, Eighty Millions of Dollars

We are sure that our efforts are appreciated by the public. Twenty-five years ago there was no institution in this city that encouraged small deposits. This Bank was organized to enable the thrifty wage earner to acquire independence.

With the growth of the Bank we inaugurated plans whereby people could obtain loans on Real Estate on most liberal terms. This resulted in hundreds of homes being owned by people who would have continued renters for the rest of their days.

The Savings Bank has steadily adhered to the policy of lending its funds in Richmond—it does not invest in stocks, but every dollar is kept at work in the interest of the public. During the twenty-five years the Savings Bank has never rediscouted a note, but has always met every demand to the minute.

To commemorate the Silver Jubilee—the Board of Directors will pay to Stockholders a Special Dividend of four per cent (one dollar per share). Checks will be mailed.

Our long experience, unblemished record and strict attention to business entitles us to the patronage of the public. We want more accounts—start with us NOW—TO-DAY.

The Savings Bank is the first bank in Virginia to make application for membership in the Federal Reserve system, thus being under National control, and equal to any institution in this country.

VIRGINIA HOSPITAL OPEN FOR PATIENTS

Now a Municipal Institution, to Care for the City's Indigent Ill.

LOOKS FINE ON INSPECTION

Regular Staff of Nurses in Charge
Under Direction of Miss Cummings.

Garnished as for a festival, with flowers sent by friends in hallway and office, furnished and swept clear, the Virginia Hospital was opened and informally dedicated yesterday afternoon to the free use of the people. Members of the Administrative Board, of the City Council, the members of the executive committee of the board of trustees of the Medical College of Virginia, and numerous representatives of the medical profession came to inspect the transformed hospital, and were greeted by Miss Leda Cummings, superintendent of nurses, who will have charge of the hospital and its work. Without encumbrance of any sort, the Virginia Hospital is now a municipal institution. Though finished in itself, the Administrative Board and members of the medical profession regard it but as the beginning of the realization of a larger dream, for it is an avowed purpose that Richmond shall one day have a new and modern municipal hospital of its own, one that will compare with any municipal hospital in any city.

Big Changes Made. It was in this vein that Dr. S. C. Mitchell, president of the Medical College of Virginia; L. Z. Morris, chairman of the executive committee of the board of trustees of the college; Chairman Robert Whittier, Jr., of the Administrative Board, and Commissioner John Hirschberg talked among themselves as they went over the building and inspected the transformation which has been accomplished. Repair, furnishing, wiring, equipment and the innumerable details connected with almost rebuilding the interior of an old domicile, including work done in the nurses' home, across the street, cost nearly $2,000.

With the exception of a few minor details that bobbed up at the last moment, as they have a habit of doing, the Virginia is ready for its work among the indigent ill. Twelve patients from the City Hospital will be moved in to-day. The patients who take the "rest cure" at the City Hospital from early November to the last days of April will remain where they are. The Virginia Hospital is for the physically ill, not for the weary who seek rest and quiet during the winter months. The hospital has a capacity of 240 patients. Complete separation of the two races has been provided for, the colored patients to occupy the right wing of the building. An entrance is provided for the city ambulance, so that its constant coming and going will not alarm and disturb the patients. Patients will be taken into a receiving room, where they will be examined and their illness diagnosed before arrangements are made for their care and treatment. There are four wards, two for each race and one for each sex. In addition, the building contains innumerable rooms, formerly used for private patients. Each floor is provided with a diet kitchen. The operating room occupies the same position as formerly, and is connected with the medical college, so that students have easy access to the clinic.

ating room occupies the same position as formerly, and is connected with the medical college, so that students have easy access to the clinic.

Like Any Other Hospital.

All the equipment, surgical and medical, is new and up-to-date. Lacking only in elaborateness, the Virginia Hospital will compare well with any in the city, and the indigent will receive the same care and attention that they would receive in a private institution. All connection with the City Home is severed, so that those whom circumstances force to the hospital will not need to imagine to themselves the least tinge of stigma. The nurses' training school, which was started at the City Hospital by Miss Cummings two years ago, will continue at Virginia Hospital, and will be in charge of Miss Lucy Minnerode, of Bellevue Hospital, New York. The school will be enlarged, for the hospital will need at least forty nurses. Miss Cummings stated, and she is preparing gradually to increase the number. The training school will afford the same experience and tuition as are afforded by other hospitals in the city. Especially at the long-term training school, the hospital will be a place of study and reception room, has been provided for them, and if the superintendent can help it none of those who undertake training at Virginia Hospital will find cause for complaint or regret.

A feature of the hospital is the provision made for the Fire and Police Departments. A room has been set aside for each department. They were the chief points of interest at the inspection yesterday. Each has been furnished by its sponsor department. New flooring has been put in both rooms, containing stairs and windows and carpets cover the floors. And each has its private utensils and medical apparatus. There are for the free use of any member of each department in case of emergency or illness.

Big Reward.

Citizens of all classes and degrees visited Virginia Hospital last night, and the large building was filled with people who had become newly interested in this latest enterprise of the Administrative Board. Especial interest was manifested in the rooms reserved for the Fire and Police Departments, both of which had been remembered by florists and friends, and were beautifully decorated for the occasion. With the nurses and internes connected with the hospital were present, and they made a pleasing sight in their uniforms as they conducted the visitors from floor to floor and explained the intricacies of hospital work. One of the most interested observers was Alderman John J. Mitchell, who appeared in the acceptance of the Virginia Hospital as a loan from the Medical College of Virginia. To him and to Commissioner John Hirschberg friends of the movement to establish a municipal hospital entirely distinct from the City Home give most of the credit for the present success of the effort.

ON TRAIL OF SISK.

Reward of $200 Offered for Arrest of Man Who Escaped From Madison Jail. [Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Charlottesville, Va., March 31.—Searchers are hot on the trail of Charles D. Sisk, who escaped from the Madison County jail last week by sawing two large steel bars of his cell, making a hole about eight inches square. He is believed to be hiding in the Blue Ridge Mountains in Greene County. A reward of $200 has been offered for his arrest. Sisk shot and killed W. H. Dobson, of Nether, on October 19 last, and was arrested in Luray the following morning and lodged in the Madison jail. The case was set for trial for March term, but on account of the absence of material witnesses, Judge John W. Fishburne, of this city, continued the case until the May term, at which time, Sisk says in a letter, he left for Jailor Hall, he will return to Madison for trial.

Sisk has already served one term in the penitentiary for killing a man twenty-six years old. He is forty-three years of age, and is six feet tall, has black hair and moustache and blue eyes.

RIGID SAFEGUARD FOR MILK SUPPLY

Health Department to Enforce
Tuberculin Test for All Cows
Supplying City.

Beginning September 15, 1915, the Richmond Board of Health will bar from the city all milk and cream derived from cows that have not passed the tuberculin test. The new rule, just approved by the Health Department, will throw an additional safeguard around the city's milk supply which, even under present regulations, is declared to be the purest in the United States.

Approximately one-third of the cows which supply Richmond with milk and cream have passed the tuberculin test. Practical difficulties have stood in the way of forcing all animals to come up to this requirement within a short space of time. With more than a year advance notice of the new requirement, the Health Department believes that the rule can be enforced without working a hardship on dairymen.

Explains New Order.

In connection with the Health Department's new order Chief Health Officer Levy yesterday made this statement: "Up to May, 1907, the only requirement for milk sold in Richmond was that it should be up to a certain chemical standard for butter fat and other solids. On May 1, 1907, the work of dairy inspection was begun, having for its prime object the securing of clean milk."

"While the question of tuberculosis in dairy cattle is one of great importance, it is well known that the harm done by dirty milk is greater than the harm done by milk from untested cows. Richmond is recognized as having the cleanest milk of any city in the country."

"Under a rule adopted by the Richmond Board of Health early last year, every cow not then shipping milk to Richmond has been required to show that his herd contains no animal reacting to tuberculosis. This rule has also applied to new cows added to any herd. Under this rule, and under the general advice of the Richmond Health Department, many herds have been tested and all reacting animals removed. At the present time over 1,700 cows from which milk comes to Richmond have been tested. With very few exceptions the results of these tests have confirmed the belief that properly constructed cow barns, with abundant light and ventilation, are a great factor in limiting tuberculosis among cows."

WHITE RETURNS TO AMERICA.

Will Take Charge of Episcopal Missions in Greene County. [Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Charlottesville, Va., March 31.—Holding the view that he had been assigned to work among the natives rather than to immigrant Christians, the Rev. Robb White, Jr., of this city, for the past five years an Episcopal missionary to the Philippine Islands, has returned to the United States; and tomorrow will accept the rectorship and superintendency of the Episcopal missions in the mountains of Greene County. Mr. White, who is the son of the late Rev. Robb White, former rector of Christ Episcopal Church, this city, was for several years rector of Grace Episcopal Church, in Standardsville, and was also in charge of the Episcopal missions in Greene County.

HUFFMAN ON PAROLE.

Mail Clerk, Sentenced for Robbery, Arrives at Penn Laird. Lynchburg, Va., March 31.—A report from Rockingham County brings information that George E. Huffman has been paroled, and has arrived at his home, at Penn Laird, after serving half of the term giving him for robbing the mails here eighteen months ago.

Huffman's parole is the result of nearly a year's work on the part of his mother, who spent months securing a largely signed petition on his behalf. Huffman stole a package containing $30,000 in transit in the mails October 28, 1911, from the Bank of Keystone, at Keystone, W. Va., to the Girard National Bank, of Philadelphia.
